A BEAUTIFUL COLLECTION OF PAINTINGS FOR SALE.—At the Academy of Fine Arts, Mr. B. Scott, Jr., will sell, this and to-morrow evening, a valuable and beautiful collection of foreign and domestic paintings. The collection consists of many paintings that will please his eye, even when viewed most closely and critically. Freyer has a fruit piece, not quite equal, perhaps, to the $1000 painting which was sold a few weeks since, but thoroughly good. It covers more canvas than that, with great effect and feeling, and those who look attentively will not miss the fruit which buzzes among such deliciousness, or that drop of water which more than one spectator has undertaken to wipe off. There are many beautiful pictures of the Flemish and Dutch schools that are most exquisitely finished. Amongst them is one of an old man bending mournfully over his broken pipe (3), a study of the Dusseldorf school. It has all the minutiae which make a picture so valuable, and is exceedingly well rendered. Another small picture representing the story of a burglary, told by Stammel, of the Dusseldorf family, in 16, where a clerk employed by a merchant, who is the last night's villain, is capitally done. So also is No. 127, by Meyer von Bremen, guaranteeing the following anecdote: A young woman declares que le tableau, le Repos de l'après Diner—l'original, dont je n'ai jamais fallu sujet avant. F. M. Bremen, Berlin, 12th November, 1866. The picture is a beautiful work of high order of merit. Herzog's Norwegian landscape (105), is a large summer scene, with a fine landscape, deer and other accessories, so attractive, that it attracts attention and gives pleasure. The light is well managed. The Norwegian cascade, by the same artist, No. 47, is a fine picture, and the scenes which his pencil has done so much to familiarize, and which is as cooling as a north wind in July. The mountains are artistically waterfalls, the boats and wharves in the foreground, are all excellent and representative, and we can almost see the dense mist arise from the water. The picture is now on exhibition at the Academy of Fine Arts.

WOMAN'S RELATION TO THE TEMPERANCE REFORM.—Mrs. Frances Dana Gage will deliver two lectures, the first on Wednesday evening of this week, at the Hancock Methodist Episcopal Church, on the subject of "The Relation of Woman to the Temperance Reform." The second lecture will be given on Friday evening, at Greenwich Chapel, near Third street, below Dickerson. It may not be known to all of our readers, but Mrs. Gage is one of the most eloquent advocates of this greatly needed reform, having a lifetime of experience at her command, and a heart that is ever ready to utter the blighting influences of intemperance in the nearest and dearest relations of life. We most earnestly desire to see her friends, and especially those who are in the habit of drinking, to attend to her lectures, in behalf of a cause that should enlist the warmest interest of every true friend of humanity.

CHEICKS THIEF.—Last evening a man giving the name of Charles Williams was arrested at Seventh and Lombard streets, upon a charge of stealing chickens. He had with him what appeared to be a stolen hen, and was unable to give a satisfactory answer. The stolen chickens in his possession, he was lodged in the Fifth District Station House. He had a hearing before Alderman Swigler, but he refused to give bail for a further examination. The chickens are now at the Fifth District Station House awaiting an owner.

AN ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.—Last night about 9 o'clock, an old man named J. Lano, nearly seventy years of age, was arrested at the water river at the foot of Vine street wharf. Officer Grimes, of the Harbor Police, heard him fall into the river, and he immediately started to give a strong pull. He was unable to do so, and he was rescued by a young man named John Young, who was in the water with him. He was taken to the Seventh District Station House, where he was comfortable until he was well enough to go to his home.

ATTEMPTING TO ROB CLOTHING-LINES.—Francis Henry was arrested at Broad and Keets streets, and John McCrean at Fifteenth and Washington streets, last evening, for alleged attempts to rob clothing-lines in the above localities. They cut the lines that were put up for drying washed clothes, but they did not succeed in getting anything in either case. They had a hearing before Alderman Dallas, who committed them in default of $1000 bail each to answer the charge of malicious mischief.

A MAN JUMPS FROM A SECOND-STORY WINDOW AND IS KILLED.—James Leahy, who keeps a drinking saloon at the corner of Arch and Fifth streets, while laboring under delirium, jumped from the second-story balcony of his house to the pavement, and almost instantaneously died, arising from injuries sustained. Mr. Leahy leaves a wife and two children.

FIGHTING IN THE STREET.—At a very early hour this morning a couple of young men amused themselves by getting into a fight on Frankford road, near Grant avenue. After disturbing the harmony of the street for a few minutes, one of them, named John Young, was arrested. He had a hearing before Alderman Clouds, who held him in $600 bail to answer the charge of assault and battery.

She had been employed in the family of Mr. Lucas, at Front and Almond streets, and is alleged to have stolen from them a gold finger-ring. She had a hearing before Alderman Titterton, who committed her to answer.

SIGHT FIRE.—About half-past 4 o'clock this morning a fire was raised, caused by the igniting of a foul chimney at No. 612 Penn street. Damage trifling.

THE STEAMER J. W. EVERMANN.—We have received the following interesting letter respecting this steamer:— To the Editor of the Evening Telegraph.—Yesterday's edition contains an article concerning the steamer J. W. Evermann, which is calculated to mislead the public both as to her character and safety. As regards Captain Cooksey's opinion that she has gone down, we have to say that the steamer was passed on the 18th inst., making for Hatteras Inlet, an isolated place from which there is no means of communication by telegraph, which accounts for the non-receipt of news. The vessel is built, it is true, from the hull of the schooner Mahon Bells, yet the hull, being iron, is as strong as steel. The hull is made of iron. As an evidence of her capabilities, she, during the war, was one of the fleet on the Texas expedition, and arrived at Texas on the fourth ship. We entertain no fears of her safety, and look for her safe arrival in a day or so. Captain Cooksey to the contrary notwithstanding, she would far outstrip the steamer had no passengers. Yours truly, LATHURAY, WICKERHAM & CO., Agents for the steamer J. W. Evermann, Philadelphia, March 27.

GOLD.—The amount of gold taken out of the three shafts now belonging to the Hubbell and Patton Gold and Silver Company, at Trout Creek, each sunk sixty feet deep in the Alta, Grizzly, and Howe Trenches, is eight thousand dollars, and a fraction over. The ore yielded $7 in the stamp mill, and $33 a ton in the smelter. The shafts are now being worked, and it is expected that the amount of gold taken out will be increased. This shows great richness in the mines, of which they own the Ten Discovery Claims, and which are the property of the ladies at Trout Creek Mines, universally conceded to be the richest developed mines in the district. This is one of the most attractive and best organized companies ever got up in this city, and should pay as well as the Hale & Norcross Company, whose stock is now $300 a share in California.

Those who have not been so deep in oil as to let this golden opportunity slip through their fingers, in the enterprise, neighboring hands entirely, had better call at No. 29 South Third street, and secure some of the preferred stock at $20 per share. The stock is a preferred dividend of forty per cent., and starting dividends with the other stock. The chance for this stock is rapidly passing away, and when it once begins to trade, it will be at the mines, no such stock can be had at five times the price.

THE COLLECTORSHIP OF THE FIRST INTERNAL REVENUE DISTRICT.—APPOINTMENT BY THE ACTING SECRETARY.—The Acting Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. S. C. Wickes, has appointed Mr. J. W. IMPEACHMENT AT LAST.—Butler's great speech was to the point. He said—and who will not second him in the timely movement— that the people have a right to know the truth, and he will serve the nation, and though I have been here some four weeks, trying to get a chance to put into the hands of the people, at the other end of the avenue, I have, in all that time, had to wear a dirty shirt. I'm no use looking for a washwoman in this great sink of sin. But have patience, my friends, and we will have a remedy, and henceforth I renounce myself, and I implore the man who persists in wearing a dirty shirt, to wash it. This, which you behold—this front of snowy blue, so beautiful and white, always unimpaired, but which has been soiled by the dirt of the thing has been dirt. Gentlemen, it is a water-proof shirt front. Should I attend the funeral of a man who wears a dirty shirt, I would wash it. It is the work of a minute, and the soap costs nothing. Excuse, time, labor, all are saved by this simple invention.

MONUMENTAL MARBLE WORKS.—Passing the Marble Yard of Henry, on 7th and 8th streets, above Seventh, the other day, we observed a large number of monuments boxed, ready for shipment. Curiosity led us to make inquiry, when we were informed they were destined for different sections of the Union. One is to be placed over the remains of the late General Jackson, at Georgetown, D. C.; one for the Rev. Dr. Lawrie, at Washington, D. C.; one for Lieutenant Feltus, at Sinton, Pa.; and a family monument, at Harwood, at Belleville, Pa. They are also building a monument to be erected at Frankfort, Twenty-third Ward, and another to the soldiers who fell during the Rebellion. It is of Italian marble, twenty feet high, rich in design, and beautifully proportioned. Last through night, a bomb, to be exploded, to be erected over the remains of our late lamented and esteemed friend, Edwin A. Hendry, Esq., which will be well known to a large number of friends and the public at large. Various other tombs and monuments are in course of completion at the Marble Yard, and we will mention a few of the previous reputation in that line of art is still fully sustained.
